

Please, Please do not allow persons to communicate via their cell phones while in flight. I will find another mode of transportation if people are allowed this. I feel that it could encourage "seat rage" and I may be the first to create it! Also, it can be unsafe, not hearing important announcements from the Captain or attendant. How about the question of security, this much communication could lead to instructions from terrorists, etc. Please, no cell phones on commercial airlines while enroute to a destination! Thank you. R. Whittington